

Employee Attendance and Working Hours Policy

1. Introduction

This policy outlines the general attendance expectations, working hours, leave procedures, and employee responsibilities followed within the organization. The purpose of this document is to ensure consistency, professionalism, and a productive work environment for all employees.

All employees are expected to follow the guidelines mentioned in this document. Managers and team leads are responsible for monitoring attendance, approving leave requests, and ensuring that employees maintain professional conduct during working hours.

2. Standard Working Hours

The standard working hours for full-time employees are from 9:00 AM to 6:00 PM, Monday through Friday. Employees are expected to complete a total of eight working hours each day, excluding lunch and scheduled breaks.

Employees should log in to the company systems on time and remain available during official business hours. Teams working with international clients may follow adjusted schedules depending on project requirements and manager approval.

Flexible work arrangements may be allowed in special circumstances. However, employees must receive written approval from their reporting manager before changing their regular work schedule.

3. Attendance Expectations

Regular attendance is important for maintaining productivity and collaboration. Employees are expected to report to work consistently and avoid unnecessary absences or delays.

If an employee is unable to attend work due to illness, emergency, or personal reasons, they must inform their manager as early as possible. Repeated late arrivals or unexplained absences may result in disciplinary action.

Employees working remotely are also expected to remain active and reachable through official communication platforms such as email, Microsoft Teams, or Slack during working hours.

4. Leave Policy

Employees are entitled to different types of leave as part of company benefits.

Casual Leave

Employees may take casual leave for personal matters, short vacations, or urgent situations. Casual leave requests should ideally be submitted at least two days in advance.

Sick Leave

Employees who are unwell may apply for sick leave. For sick leave exceeding two consecutive days, a medical certificate may be requested by the HR department.

Earned Leave

Earned leave is accumulated based on the employee's duration of service. Employees are encouraged to plan earned leave in advance to minimize disruptions to project work.

Emergency Leave

Emergency leave may be granted in exceptional situations such as family emergencies, accidents, or urgent personal matters.

All leave requests must be submitted through the official HR portal or communicated directly to the reporting manager.

5. Remote Work Guidelines

Employees approved for remote work must ensure they have a stable internet connection and a productive working environment. Confidential company information must not be shared with unauthorized individuals.

Employees working remotely are expected to attend virtual meetings, respond to communication promptly, and complete assigned tasks within deadlines.

Managers may schedule regular check-ins to review work progress and discuss any project-related concerns.

6. Code of Conduct During Working Hours

Employees are expected to maintain professionalism and respectful behavior at all times. Harassment, discrimination, or inappropriate conduct will not be tolerated within the organization.

Company devices and internet services should primarily be used for official purposes. Excessive personal usage during working hours may affect employee performance evaluations.

Employees must also follow all security protocols related to passwords, confidential documents, and access to internal systems.

7. Performance and Productivity

Managers regularly review employee performance based on work quality, communication, attendance, and timely completion of assigned tasks.

Employees are encouraged to participate in training sessions, skill development programs, and internal workshops to improve their professional growth.

Constructive feedback and regular performance discussions help employees understand expectations and improve their contributions to the organization.

8. Policy Compliance

Failure to comply with company policies may result in warnings, performance improvement plans, or disciplinary action depending on the severity of the issue.

The company reserves the right to update or modify policies at any time based on business requirements, legal regulations, or operational changes.

Employees are encouraged to contact the Human Resources department if they have questions regarding any policy mentioned in this document.

9. Conclusion

This policy document is designed to promote fairness, accountability, and a healthy work environment for all employees. By following these guidelines, employees contribute to a professional and collaborative workplace culture.

All employees are expected to review company policies regularly and remain informed about any future updates or announcements made by the organization.
